EDWARD J. DONOVAN – GENERAL MANAGER

Guiding the fortunes of the Buffalo Braves is Eddie Donovan, the former basketball coach—Athletic Director of St. Bonaventure University. Donovan is credited with building the New York Knickerbocker NBA championship team of 1970.

Already in the short time he has been with the Braves, he has shown signs of laying the groundwork for building another NBA champion. At the conclusion of last season it was acknowledged that the Braves two biggest needs were a playmaker and a big center capable of playing defense. Donovan found answers to both of these problems by acquiring Elmore Smith in the draft and trading with Atlanta for Walt Hazzard.

Donovan resides with his wife Marjorie and their five children in East Aurora, N.Y.

DOLPH SCHAYES – COACH

Last year Dolph Schayes was honored both by the NBA – naming him to its All-Time team – and by his Alma Mater, New York University – naming him to the school's Athletic Hall of Fame. These are just two of the many honors that the Braves' popular coach has earned throughout his career.

In 16 seasons of pro basketball Dolph scored 19,249 points for a 18.2 average while performing for Syracuse and Philadelphia. He is the fourth top rebounder and the fifth top scorer in the history of the NBA.

Besides coaching the Braves, Schayes has seen service in the league as the mentor of the Philadelphia 76ers. He also served in the league office as the Supervisor of Officials.

Dolph and his family reside in Williamsville, N.Y. during the basketball season.

BRAVES STAFF MEMBERS

JERRY McCANN – Trainer – Veteran of the NBA who spent two years with Chicago before joining the Braves. Formerly with the New York Yankees farm system and was a track coach at his alma mater, Syracuse University. He is still very active in marathon racing. He resides with his wife June and family in Williamsville, N.Y.

JERRY KISSEL – Publicity Director – Braves second oldest employee in terms of length of service to the team. Formerly worked with the Indiana Pacers, Buffalo Bills, Detroit Tigers and in college sports information at Michigan State University and alma mater, University of Detroit. He is engaged to Susan Emmerling with a June wedding planned.

GEORGE DADDARIO – Public Relations Director – former professional baseball player and front office man with the Buffalo Bisons when they set minor league attendance records. George is the man to see when setting up your group nights with the Braves. He and his family reside in Williamsville, N.Y.
